

Patricia Shuttleworth

Pat has been involved with school bussing for over 32 years, first as a school bus driver and later as Transportation Supervisor for the Winnipeg School Division, where she was responsible for bussing over 2200 students to and from school on a daily basis, traveling over 1 million km per year.

She has sat on numerous committees, elected for a double term as Transportation Director and was elected as President of Manitoba Association of School Business Officials from 2005-06.

Her interest in a clean environment for the students that she transported ignited when bio-diesel became an alternative source of fuel in Canada. The Winnipeg School Division was the first to use biodiesel in their school buses in Manitoba, and one of the only divisions in Canada to continue its' use.

Pat has shared her successful experiences with biodiesel at several conferences including the Canadian Transportation Conference in Victoria, British Columbia; the Canola Growers Association Session on Bio-diesel in Winnipeg, Manitoba; and the Odyssey 2008 –Clean Cities Winnipeg Conference in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

She is married with four children, 2 step children, and has a grand total of 10 grandchildren. Pat is now semi-retired, acting as a consultant in her field.
